A FATAL
SHOOTING
AFFRAY.

Six Spaniards in a Quarrel.

ONE USES HIS FIVE SHOOTER

The Victim is in the County Hospital at the Point of Death.

A fatal shooting affair occurred in this city last night about 8:30. A quarrel was started among half a dozen Spanish sheep shearers, who were standing at the end of the station building waiting to take the east bound train, which had just pulled in.

There were six in the party and seemed to be five against one. The one was Elmer Soso of Bakersfield, Cal. He had been in Reno before and had arrived from Amadeo Wednesday evening. He had just purchased a ticket to Winnemucca. The other men were strangers and were bound for Rawlins, Wyoming.

After the quarrel had progressed for a minute or two Soso drew a 38-caliber Smith & Wesson and shot one of his antagonists through the abdomen.
He was carried to the Palace hotel and afterwards removed to the hospital.

Up to midnight the bullet had not been located. The man recovered sufficiently to name the man who shot him. Drs. Hogan and Gibson pronounced the case as critical in the extreme. They could not at that time give any hope of his recovery. The wounded man gave his name as Joaquin Alansino.

Officer Nash arrested Soso, who made no resistance, but said, "I am the man." He was locked up in the county jail. The constabulary immediately set out to find the companions of the man who was shot, but they had taken the train, which pulled out immediately after the shooting. The men will be taken off the train at Lovelock or Winnemucca and held as witnesses.

IRRIGATION IN THE
STATE OF NEVADA

Congressman Newlands' Work in the Interest of State Progress.

In a letter to the editor of the Carson Appeal, the Hon. F. G. Newlands gives an outline of the irrigation bills introduced by him during the last session of Congress. These bills apply in two instances particularly to the State of Nevada and in one instance to the whole of the United States. The two special bills provide $70,000 to be expended on the Humboldt river and $80,000 to be expended on the Truckee river. The general bill provides for the application of the proceeds from the sale of all public lands to a special fund to be called the Arid Land Reclamation Fund to be under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, not only for investigation but for actual construction of such projects as he deems practicable.

In concentrating his efforts upon governmental assistance for the reclamation of the arid lands throughout the United States, Mr. Newlands is building better than he knows. There is no subject at the present time more worthy of consideration by Congress than this, and no object more worthy of assistance. To anyone who has traveled the State of Utah and seen the beneficial effects of irrigation on the arid lands, the wonder is that the government of the United States has not long ago made this a national matter, and extended liberal national aid to the reclamation of millions of acres, which can be made to blossom like a garden by the application of water. We believe that the equilibrium of nature is always maintained, and that where water does not exist upon the surface, that it exists beneath the surface and can be had for the seeking. The writer drove across the State of Nevada from Aurora to Utah, and believes that underlying a vast territory of sagebrush plains, there is an immense reservoir of artesian water. It has been demonstrated that these great sagebrush plains, when irrigated, will produce anything that will grow in their zone and it is the duty of the national government to demonstrate that artesian water exists in sufficient quantity to irrigate these waterless wastes. The national government lends its aid to commerce, manufactures and mining, and it is just, and right, and equitable that it should lend its aid to agriculture, not meagerly but liberally, because that is the foundation upon which all the others rest. Mr. Newlands, in his letter, speaks of the "disensions and jealousies of the different States, aroused by the naming of a specific project in any one State." This is to be deplored and indicates a condition of narrow mindedness on the part of State representatives, which is extremely regrettable. There should be no disensions or jealousies in a matter of this kind. It is a subject of national interest and should be a unity of action, which should be friendly, liberal and cordial. Every State should have annual national conventions, where all could be represented and where the delegates could freely discuss the subject of water storage, irrigation and the reclamation of arid lands.

We hope that Mr. Newlands will continue his efforts until he compels both houses of Congress to understand the importance and magnitude of this question, and will give it the attention it deserves. Mr. Newlands is doing magnificent work, not only for the State of Nevada, which he represents in Congress, but for every State in the Union, and he deserves the support and commendation of every one of his constituents and every man, woman and child, that earns or eats bread each day of his life. He is working in their interest and for them and no man in the Congress of the United States is
